

We propose a new generalised rank-3 demand system which nests all known (and new) rank-3 demand systems derived from the Quadratic Logarithmic (QL) cost function. We investigate its statistical adequacy against commonly encountered alternatives using U.K. household data.